ANARCHISTS MUST HANG.

THE SUPREME COURT DENIES THEM A NEW TRIAL.

Chief Justice Waite Reads the Decision Which Denies the Last Chance for Judicial Interference With the Execution of the Sentence of the Reds.

JUDGES IN CONSULTATION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Anarchists' appeal for a writ of error was denied by the supreme court of the United States today. This destroys their last chance for judicial interference with the execution of the sentence, and their only hope now for prolongation of life seems to depend upon the executive clemency of the governor of Illinois.

The court room was crowded when the justices took their seats a few minutes past 12 o'clock. They appeared unusually solemn and serious, and a hush fell over the room, when Chief Justice Waite, without a moment's delay, announced that he would read the opinion of the court in the matter of an application by Spies and others for a writ of error to the supreme court of the state of Illinois.

Almost the first sentence indicated that the Anarchists' appeal to the court of error was denied. Chief Justice Waite, who, it is understood, prepared the decision, proceeded slowly and calmly to read the decision, while the audience paid the closest attention to each sentence.

In the decision the court takes up each proposition advanced by counsel for petitioners and pronounces upon the law and questions of fact governing the record upon which it is sought to establish these propositions, and in each and every particular rules distinctly against all these propositions. They lay particular stress upon the fact that in previous decisions, the constitutionality of laws similar to the jury laws of Illinois had been determined in their favor; and that the supreme court of Illinois had rightly held that the accused had not been denied a trial by an impartial jury.

Upon the question of the composition of the jury in the trial court, it is held that both Dink and Sanford had been properly impeached, and that the fact that the defense had exhausted their peremptory challenges when Juror Sanford was presented, did not come within the rule laid down in a territorial case, decided by the supreme court of the United States, and that therefore Sanford was a competent juror.

Upon the question of Spies being compelled to testify against himself, the court holds that no substitution of that fact was shown by the record.

Upon the question of illegal seizures in Spies' office the court sustains the ruling of the supreme court of Illinois, which refused to consider this question because it had not been raised in the trial court.

Upon the question of the special plea entered by Gen. Butler that Spies and Fielden were aliens and had been deprived of their rights and immunities under existing treaty stipulations with Germany and England, the court holds that no such question having been presented in the court below, nor any treaties having been cited to the court in substantiation of this claim, and as the court had not been able to find any such treaties, it therefore followed that the court could take no cognizance of them, as it was a question outside the record of the case.

Chief Justice Waite closed by saying: "We are therefore of the opinion that no Federal question has been presented warranting the interference of this court, and therefore we deny the writ."

How the Anarchists Received the News.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Within five minutes after the United Press dispatch announcing the decision of the United States supreme court reached Chicago it was inside the jail. It was the first news the officials there had received, and none of the prisoners knew that their fate had been decided. It was after the exercise hour, and Jailer Fox concluded that it would be wise not to subject the condemned men to the immediate ordeal of an interview at the same moment that the news was communicated to them. He consented, however, that a copy of the dispatch should be taken into them and the messenger returned with the information that they received it apathetically, with the exception of Lingg, who paced the floor of his cell like a caged lion.

The prisoners this morning evidently had a foreboding that the worst was at hand, for during the exercise hour they were unusually morose and gloomy, and their friends were equally dejected and depressed. George Schilling called at the jail shortly after the news had been bulletined, but was not allowed to see the prisoners. The "Amnesty" association on immediately held a hurried conference, and decided to issue a call for a mass meeting, to be held Saturday or Sunday night.

Capt. Schack hastened from Chicago Avenue station to the jail immediately upon hearing the news and will have a consultation with the sheriff concerning the advisability of increasing the guard inside and outside the structure. The news quickly spread through the criminal courts, city and county buildings and was telephoned to all police stations throughout the city and was received with undisguised satisfaction. On the streets and in the various resorts, however, it failed to create the excitement which might have been expected. An indication that the character of the decision had already been anticipated and discounted.

When the note was sent up to Spies informing him briefly of the result and asking if he had anything to say, Spies looked up from his writing and read it calmly. Having finished, he as calmly handed it back, shook his head, with the remark: "I have nothing to say," and resumed his writing. He evinced not a trace of emotion and his color remained unchanged. The note was then sent to Parsons, but the same curt answer was returned. He had nothing to say.

"I do not know just what action the Amnesty association will take," said J. R. Buchanan. "Mr. Oliver, who is chairman of the association, is not in at present. I presume, however, they will continue as they have been doing, securing signatures to the petition. The Amnesty association had nothing whatever to do with the case before the courts. That was the work of the Defense Fund association; but now that nothing further can be done in the courts I presume the Defense association will join hands with the Amnesty association, and both will do their best toward influencing the governor. The signatures already number many thousands, and they are increasing every day. I am badly disappointed in the action of the supreme court. I thought for a while that the court would see sufficient importance in this case to grant it a more thorough hearing but it seems they did not."

Want Liberty or Death.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—George Engel, Louis Lingg and Adolph Fischer, the condemned Anarchists, have followed the example of Parsons and written to Governor Oglesby protesting that they are innocent of any crime and declining the interposition of their clemency so far as a commutation of their sentences is concerned, and declaring their preference for death. They say the petitions being circulated in their behalf have not their sanction, and they refuse anything but absolute liberty.

PICKED UP BY A TUG.

Two Unknown Men Found Drowned in the Bay.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Nov. 3.—Dr. Burke, one of the owners of the Northern Michigan line, arrived yesterday and immediately chartered a tug and cruised about the bay, bearing down southeast. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon they found the body of a man floating several feet below the surface and in an upright position. The body is that of a man apparently twenty-five years of age and a laborer. His features form a picture of agony, plainly showing that he suffered a terrible death.

About an hour afterward another body, also that of a man, seemingly about thirty-two years of age, was discovered. It is clothed in white undershirt, with black pants striped with white, has a sandy mustache and does not look like a laborer. The face has a peaceful expression. Both bodies could not be identified. The coroner will hold an inquest to-day. The first body found is five feet five inches, thick set, short hair and looks like that of a German. The second body is five feet six inches, slender, sandy mustache, thin hair, intelligent face.

The revenue cutter Audy Johnson is in port and will go out to-day on a search, as will also Dr. Burke on the tug Pankratz.

Ivy City Races.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The attendance at the Ivy City course to-day was the largest of the meeting. The weather was perfect and the track, though still showing the effects of the recent rains, was in fair condition. Second race, six furlongs: John Lee first, Vance second, Regulator third. Time 1:19. Mutuals paid $105.35.

Third race, six furlongs: Swift first, Banner Bearer second, Boss third. Time 1:16 1-2. Mutuals paid $29.90.

Two Hundred Got Away.

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 3.—After watching the Indians for three weeks, the military allowed 200 of them to make their escape for parts unknown last night. They are supposed to have come toward this place, and considerable uneasiness is felt here for the safety of the people along the Yellowstone and also at Junction City. The actions of the defiant Indians about here confirms the belief that all is not right. It is noticed that all are well armed and can make a long struggle. Many stockmen who have cattle on the reservation are sending out men for their protection.

Upper Sandusky Has a Gusher.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 3.—The city council has expended $5,000 in drilling three gas wells. The first two were both producers. The third on the infirmity farm came in last week, and furnished sufficient gas to supply the infirmity building. It was shot yesterday, however, and the result is a gusher of wonderful magnitude. It makes a thirty foot blaze, and the pressure is such that operators will not confine the gas for fear of blowing out the casing. The roaring of the escaping gas can be heard three miles.

"Blinky" Morgan Guilty of Murder.

RAVENNA, O., Nov. 3.—Owing to the decision of the defense in the "Blinky" Morgan trial to make a plea for the prisoner, the argument for the prosecution was abruptly terminated this morning and Judge Johnson delivered his charge to the jury. At the conclusion of the judge's address, which was a somewhat lengthy and elaborate effort, the twelve men who held Morgan's fate in their hands retired. The jury was out but a short time, and at 11:30 rendered a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Jeff Davis Recovering.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 3.—Jefferson Davis who has been in a feeble condition since the last day of the ex-Confederate reunion, is not considered alarmingly ill, and this morning shows signs of a speedy recovery.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

IN WHICH MANY PERSONS WERE BURIED ALIVE.

A Gasoline Explosion Causes the Death of Twelve People, and the Serious Injury of a Number of Others—Three Buildings Blown to Atoms—The Killed.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—A terrible explosion occurred about 2:30 o'clock this morning in the grocery store of Michael Newman, at 7 South Fourteenth street. The grocery and two adjoining two story brick buildings were nearly demolished, and twelve persons, including the wife and five children of Newman, and two families living in the adjoining houses were buried in the ruins. The cause of the explosion is a mystery, some attributing it to the criminal use of dynamite, others to powder stored in the building, and others to the accidental explosion of gasoline. The people sleeping in the house were C. N. Devere and wife, who are missing, and Michael Newman, his wife, Annie, and their children, Mame, John, Edward, Nellie and Katie.

The firemen at 3:15 a. m. had succeeded in clearing away a space about ten feet square in the center of the ruins. A faint cry of agony broke upon their ears. Fire was creeping in on three sides, but they fought off the flames to prevent the cremation of the suffering living as well as the remains of the dead. A child in the last tortures of death was handed out and placed in an ambulance and started toward the dispensary. A moment later Annie Newman's lifeless form was found clasping in her arms a dead daughter, Katie, aged eleven. The corpse of Michael Newman was at the same time taken out. These were mangled, bloody and charred in a horrible manner. All the Newmans had then been taken out, and all might as well be counted as dead, as the two suffering children will die. At 4:30 the dead bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Devere were found horribly mangled and burned. Also the body of a Miss Peevly, who had slept in an adjoining room.

There were more people in the building and it is feared the death list will be larger than at first reported. The work in the ruins is necessarily slow because of the shattered condition of the building.

The ruins of the building were surrounded by an excited crowd of people at an early hour this morning. The work of searching for bodies was still going on. The only survivor so far taken from either No. 7 or No. 9 is Miss Hattie Brown, the sister and visitor of Mrs. Devere. She states that she awoke to find herself buried between heavy timbers, some where against a wall. On one side of her a wall of fire reached to the sky, while crashing timbers and clattering iron flew in a storm about her. The screams of persons in adjoining buildings were fearful. She essayed to escape, but found herself firmly pinned down by a heavy beam. At last a settling of the wreck partially released the pressure, and she struggled from beneath the debris. How she made her way to the little back yard where she was found, she cannot tell, except that it was by staggering, falling, climbing and rolling over, through or from the ruined house.

The cause of the explosion is not positively known, but customers of Newman, the grocer, say that he carried a heavy stock of kerosene and gasoline in the rear room of his store. Those who were near the explosion when it occurred give it as their opinion that the gasoline was the cause of the horrible disaster. The following is the list of the dead recovered from the ruins up to this hour:

Michael Newman, aged fifty-two years.
Mrs. Annie Newman, aged forty years.
Miss Mame Newman, aged eighteen years.
John Newman, aged sixteen years.
Nellie Newman, aged fifteen years.
Kate Newman, aged eleven years.
Eddie Newman, aged thirteen years.
Charles Devere.

Mrs. Charles Devere.
The injured, none of whom, however, are seriously hurt, are:
Miss Hattie Brown, of Columbus, Ky., bruised about the lower limbs.
Charles Efferd.
Miss Patty Bryant.
Mrs. Beasley.

Mrs. Beasley, one of the victims of the catastrophe, is now dead.
Mammie Newman died at the city hospital at 10 o'clock. Nellie Newman, reported dead, is still alive at the city hospital, but there is small hope of her recovery.

Mr. Charles Devere was well known to circus show people, being an old and popular advance agent in that business. He had lately closed the season with Howe's London show at Dallas, Tex., and came here to spend the winter. He is a brother of the well known poet and actor, Will Devere, of Leadville, Col.

The destructive force of the explosion must have been awful, judging from the results. Just north of the little grocery store, and across the alley, stands a saloon which fronts on Market street. Almost the whole rear wall of this building was blown into the bar-room, and every piece of glass within the place shattered to atoms. The barkeeper, with half a dozen customers had only left the place a few moments prior to the explosion. Over this saloon were the rooms of a physician. Here the furniture of the room was piled in a heap against the northern walls of the rooms. Dr. Connery, the occupant, was blown bodily from his bed against the wall of his room, but was only slightly bruised. Every pane of glass in all the buildings, for a radius of fifty yards, was shattered and furniture in many adjacent buildings smashed to pieces.

AN UNKNOWN POISONER'S WORK.

Eight Persons Dead and a Number of Others Dangerously Ill.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—A special from Delhi, La., gives the following particulars of a horrible wholesale poisoning: On Friday evening, October 28, George C. King, who resides four or five miles southwest of Lamar, in Franklin parish, gave a dance and supper at his residence. After supper was nearly over all the guests were taken violently sick. A doctor was sent for, and said that the sickness was caused by poison, and he was unable to render much relief.

Louis King, Jr., Ben King, Walter Bell, Lee Ford, John O'Brien, Jr., and Miss Minnie Brown, all white, and Zeke Hill, colored, have since died, and the wife of Hill and his six children; Ann Ford and six children, white; Mrs. Louis King and children; Fannie Walker and a child, one of the Dunham boys; Bruce Spiers and Hillyard Butler, wife and children are dangerously sick, but were alive at last accounts. Also Washburne was quite sick, but is now out of danger.

No motive can be assigned for this dastardly deed. The cook is not supposed to be guilty, as she is dangerously sick, and her husband and one or two of her children are dead. The doctor and others are investigating the matter to ascertain the nature of the poison.

Insane on Temperance.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 3.—One of the most prominent members of the faculty of the Centennial Biblical Institute of this city is the Rev. John C. Round. From early youth he has been an advocate of temperance, although he never spoke at meetings. After the Prohibitionists named their state ticket last September, Mr. Round visited his friends and informed them of a plan he had to elect Sumnerfield Baldwin, the Prohibition candidate for governor. They paid but little attention to him at the time, but his repeated calls worried them not a little. He kept this up until a few days ago, when it was thought he must have lost his mind. He was induced to call on Dr. Tannehill, an expert in mental diseases, who, after an examination, pronounced him insane. That day and the next he eluded his friends and wandered about the streets, visiting the various newspaper offices, trying to get published an address in advocacy of Mr. Baldwin, who, he said, would surely succeed President Cleveland if he could only be elected governor. Yesterday he was caught and taken to Spring Grove Insane asylum. The temperance question upset his mind.

Mischievous Boys Shot.

STEVENSVILLE, O., Nov. 3.—Halloween was observed by a large number of young men in the vicinity of York, this county, who indulged in the usual pranks of country boys by starting those who were sleeping with unearthly noises and mysterious sounds. During their frolicking they came to the house of Robert Durbin, who lives about a mile from the village, and began throwing shelled corn against the windows of the house. Durbin, seeing his shotgun, without a word of warning, fired into the crowd. Five or six buckshot lodged in back of Leander Adams, but inflicted no serious injury. William Newman, a young man aged about twenty-two, was not so fortunate. One of the shot struck him just above the left eye-ball. It did not cut the ball, but penetrated the brain, inflicting what his physician thinks will prove a fatal wound. It was a sad end to the boys' fun, and they carried their unfortunate companion to his home, where at last account he was still living. Durbin was arrested.

A Rival to the Western Union.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—Jay Gould is to be menaced by a new rival in the telegraph business. Baltimore capitalists are to furnish the bulk of the money necessary to build and equip the most complete rival telegraph system yet organized. The projectors of the new lines claim that when completed will be perfectly able to successfully compete with Gould's lines and give the public a good service at equitable rates. The men who are backing this new system are gentlemen of wealth and standing, and fully able to carry out their plans. As yet the project is not sufficiently far advanced to justify the promoters of it in making public the details, and the greatest secrecy is therefore observed.

Canada Not Stuck on England.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 3.—The St. John Telegraph publishes an article which has caused some stir in official circles, charging Mr. Chamberlain with being prejudiced against Canada, as shown in speeches made by him. He has spoken of the bond between Canada and England as a slender tie, and has warned Canada that if she enters into commercial union with the United States it will lead to separation. The Telegraph says this suggests the question whether the slender tie is worth preserving, and whether union with the United States would not be worth more to Canada than a slender tie with a country that is so ready to have separation.

Death Caused From Excitement.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—The distressing circumstances attending the death of Miss Bertha Meyberg, in St. Louis, caused grief to many friends. She was to have been married soon to Alfred Gersfeld, of Albuquerque, N. M., who is now on the way, and was shopping with her mother last Thursday, when she fell as if dead in a shoe store. The attack was paralysis from which she never rallied. The case is a peculiar one and attracting great attention among medical men. It is supposed that the attack was brought on by excitement in making preparations for the wedding.

Federal Troops Ordered to Chicago.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 2.—The adjutant general's department of Missouri has ordered Company F and Company K, Sixth Infantry, stationed at Fort Douglas, near this city, to proceed at once to the new military reservation presented by Chicago, to the United States. There are about forty-five men in each company. They will leave here for Chicago next Friday, or Saturday in command of Maj. Syster. Company K, which has been building a military road to Fort Duchane, is now marching to Pikes, a station on the Denver & Rio Grande, and will soon reach there. It is rumored that the reason for haste is the desire to have Federal troops in Chicago several days prior to the day set for the hanging of the Anarchists.

Anarchist Threats.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—The friends of the condemned Reds are resorting to most nefarious schemes to secure the release of the convicts. Intimidating letters have been sent to Judge Gary and State's Attorney Grinnell has been warned that his children will be kidnapped. The police guard about the houses has been strengthened, but Mrs. Grinnell is in constant dread of the execution of these villainous threats.

Weary of Life.

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 2.—Miss Nellie McConaha died yesterday from the effects of an overdose of morphine. It is supposed the drug was taken with suicidal intent, she having expressed a weariness of her lot.
